Mighty Matty Getting Ready for Series

Christy Mathewson, the maxter twirier of the New York Giants, who will probably be McGraw's first choice to take the mound against the Philadelphia Athleties in the big series next month. Mathewson pitched three of the greatest games of his long and brilliant career last October, but while Matty made fools of his opponents, his own teammates were making a fool out of him by foozling the simplest kind of plays. Time was when the grabber of unwilling thoughts from a creaking type-writer was given a rest in between seasons. Not so now. While it was never a far cry from the diamond to the gridiron, and always the leather-cleated brigade has camped close on the trail of the spiked phalanx, still there was a brief period devoted to resting and viewing what was to come. But with Tyrus Raymond tearing with terror into the hearts of weary flingers, and "Hobie" Baker circling ends for forty-five-yard gains, while fleet-but what's the use. Washington is in second place, and by what seems to be a safe margin. Detroit did the unexpected, and won two from Cleveland, while the Climbers were walloping the Yonkees for the fourth time, giving Clark Griffith a lead of one game and a half. Once more Griff will nail the runner-up honor, and, next year—maybe.

Almost all of the 'football games scheduled yesterday came out as expected. Yale, Princeton and Harvard had easy times. Pennsylvania showed better than was expected, but Cornell was a disappointment. Carlisle had no difficulty in rolling up a fair score. In the West as well as in the East and the South. Some of the teams of the South, or more particularly in Virginia, the university swamped Randolph-Macon under a 40 to 0 score. Corporal Frank Brosch, of the Lynchburg Home Guards, shot a good consistent score at all three ranges, winning eighth place in the swiftest company of the State. Sergeant P. E. Newell, one of Richmond's best shots, made 45 and 44 at the 300 and 500-yard ranges, but his 33 at 200 lost him place. He tied for ninth money, but his score was outranked by that of Sergeant Serrett, Sergeant P. J. The team work of the Invincibles was of first-class order, and although the Blue's took three of their men from the line-up, the team did not miss them at all, as Word's place was ampiged quarter in Gray's place, and the team has never been run better since it was organized; and Davis, at guard in the place of Kleversahl, held down the place so well that it looked as if an improved Kleversahl was in the position.
